This customised approach results in learning outcomes suited not only to your staff but also to your particular institution.

Did you know that we can create case studies and credit-bearing assignments to match real-life scenarios in your organisation? This is just one way we can customise training according to your specific requirements.

How banking students learn and grow with us

Milpark's philosophy is to encourage both academic study and personal development as part of the learning journey. In the banking sector, we focus not only on the professional skills required in the workplace, but also on soft skills such as collaboration, people management and emotional intelligence.

Our support structure enables students to make the most of their time with us through:

myMILPARK

Our bespoke, best-practice online learning platform allows students to navigate all their learning resources and participate in live sessions in our virtual classrooms.

CONTACT SESSIONS

We host debates, groupwork and other face-to-face engagements: through interaction with others, students can build knowledge and develop as individuals.

TUTORS

Our team's academic and sector knowledge make them great learning and career mentors, blending innovative thinking with practical support.

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL): the gateway to the degree

Milpark appreciates and recognises prior learning. There are many experienced bankers in your team who have accumulated knowledge and skills during their career and at their place of work, be it formal or informal learning. Milpark has established a comprehensive RPL process that enables us to consider and assess evidence of prior learning on a case-by-case basis.

RPL can be used for access, allowing candidates to be admitted to Milpark's PGDip programme without the formally required degree. RPL can also be used for credits towards particular modules of the programme.
