Students will be equipped with information-processing, research and project management skills in order to complete the final project report.

Programme Monitoring and Evaluation PME01-8

The public expect and demand accountability from the public service. Strategic Public Sector People Management SPSP01-8

Human resources shortfalls are eroding the ability of many government departments (or organisations), adversely affecting employees' ability to perform their tasks economically, efficiently and effectively. Organisations that acquire, develop and retain high-performing employees with the appropriate skills and competencies are better able to respond to the needs of their stakeholders and changes in their external environment. The module is aimed at equipping students to become organisational leaders through people management. The module therefore aims to assist students with using human resources effectively and determining how well human resources are integrated into daily decision-making and planning for the departmental results that need to be achieved. Towards that goal, the module highlights the importance of a sustained commitment by the department or sector's leaders to maximise the value of their human resources and manage related risks.
